Money will not make you a man.

Struggle makes you a man.

And if you become THE MAN and THEN make money - you live the supreme human experience.

If you make the money first - you're in big trouble.

Crypto Twitter is full of losers.

Like a bunch of children who won the lottery, they have zero real-world skills.

Zero struggle (lessons) to acquire wealth.

Sure to get famoosed by any average chick.

Skinny arms and soft cocks.

Robbery targets so they hide behind cartoons.

Having a lot of money doesn't mean anything.

Crypto dorks are a great example of this.

You must have skills, connections, and habits - that can only be learned via living in the real world.

I've made millions and millions of dollars from crypto and I STILL do,

But the difference between me and a crypto dork is that you can take all my money away and I'm still a superhero.
